

Download Node:

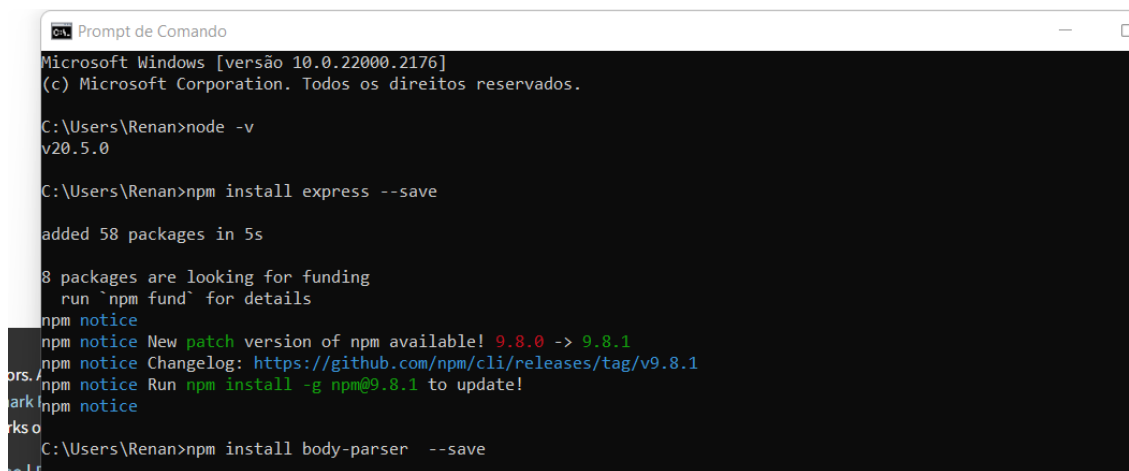

The screenshot shows the Node.js website. At the top is a dark navigation bar with the Node.js logo and links: HOME, ABOUT, DOWNLOADS, DOCS, GET INVOLVED, SECURITY, CERTIFICATION, and NEWS. Below the navigation bar, a text line states: "Node.js® is an open-source, cross-platform JavaScript runtime environment." The main heading is "Download for Windows (x64)". There are two green buttons: "18.17.0 LTS" with the subtext "Recommended For Most Users" and "20.5.0 Current" with the subtext "Latest Features". Below these buttons are links: "Other Downloads | Changelog | API Docs" for the LTS version and "Other Downloads | Changelog | API Docs" for the current version. At the bottom, it says: "For information about supported releases, see the release schedule."

Download Postman:

The screenshot shows the Postman website. The browser address bar shows "postman.com". The navigation bar includes "Home", "Workspaces", "API Network", and "Explore", along with a search bar "Search Postman". On the left sidebar, there's a section "Postman works best with teams" with a "Create Team" button, and a list of features: "Workspaces", "Private API Network", "API Governance", "API Security", "Integrations", and "Reports". The main content area is titled "Explore popular APIs" and lists three APIs: "Razorpay APIs" (with 10k+ forks and 9.39k watches), "Creatio API" (with 200+ forks and 253 watches), and "Content Management API - Contentstack" (with 200+ forks and 221 watches). Each API entry includes a brief description and the date it was last updated.
